BG Juniors Whip
Pahokee 18-0

Belle Glade High School's Junior Varsity stacked another victory on the pile last week as they stopped the Junior Devils of Pahokee 18-0 in what Coach Luke Thornton termed their best defensive game of the season.

Using a four-man line with four-man end zones, the team did a great job with stand-out performances from Robert Barbara and Payton Smith.

Mike Roberts went over from 12 yards out for the first Ram score in the second quarter. As the second half began Fullback Homer Frasur ran the kick back 79 yards for the second score.

Early in the final quarter Skipper Peacock passed to Bob Stratton for the final score.

JV Squad Blanks Stuart 12-0 In Game Tuesday

The Belle Glade Junior Varsity football squad scampered past the Stuart Tigers yesterday night 12-0 in Belle Glade's fourth win in five starts.

Looking good and the way, the team went into the game behind the 25 yard line through the game with one exception.

In the first quarter Bob Stratton skipped around for ten yards and the first score.

At the start of the second half, Stuart grabbed the kick and ran all the way; however, the kick was called back for a clipping penalty.

Then in the third quarter Lefty Diddly Malls gained nine yards in a series of carries and did a great job with stand-out performances from Robert Barbara and Payton Smith.

The JV squad faces Pahokee Nov. 11 in their final contest.

Coach Luke Thornton reported that Abel was a standout on the defensive side of the ledger as he has been most of the season; Coach Luke Thornton reported.

How To Study

Why study? Learning is something no one else can do for you. You can set your own conditions under which you can study and it can give you the materials to work with, but you have to do the work of studying for yourself. If you want to learn intellectually, you and your future are being molded during these short, critical years. Make the most of them.

The proper taking of assignments is a prime prerequisite of good study. You should have one notebook for assignments only. Never use scrap paper. The assignments should be kept by the day or subject and should be written clearly.

Try to choose a suitable place for effective study, the place should be well-lighted, well-ventilated, clean and free from disturbing noises. A straight chair and desk or table should be used.

Before beginning work, one should read over the assignment material. After deciding which assignment is one is going to do, he should plunge into his work cheerfully. Very often it is easier to get interested in a subject by doing the easiest assignment first and gradually work up to the more difficult ones.

With any assignment, make sure you understand its purpose by reading it carefully. Break it down and analyze it. If you do not understand the problem, try to understand the problem as a whole. If possible, review your work before class.

While studying from a text book, it sometimes good practice to underline important facts or to make notes in the margin. However, if the book does not have any underlined material in a notebook. Be sure to read long assignments rapidly at first and then re-read slowly, topic by topic, to get the meaning. Try to rephrase difficult sentences in your own words in order to better understand them. You may find that reading aloud will help at times.

If memorizing becomes necessary, you should learn the selected material as whole sections that piece by piece. Psychologists have found that we learn faster this way and retain longer.

Finally, be sure to use the vocabulary book. This has to offer such as index, table of contents, and glossary. Use your school library and the public library to help you do your own work. Copying the work of others will not help you to solve your own problems.

Pontiac Completes Record Drive In Coast-To-Coast Performance Test

A 1959 Pontiac Catalina sport sedan has just completed a 2,442-mile coast-to-coast trip at a cost of $17.78, averaging 10.6 miles per gallon, with an average speed of 40.2 miles per hour for the entire trip.

Driven by Tom Jones, famous automotive writer and noted car tester and under the supervision of NASCAR officials, the 1959 car was equipped with a regular production 215 horsepower engine. The economy engine designed to use regular grade gasoline. The use of regular fuel, coupled with higher gasoline mileage, gave the 1959 Pontiac a savings in operational costs of well over 20%.

Tom McCaughill, well known for high performance tests under the most adverse racing conditions from San Diego, California to Savannah, Georgia. On some portions of the trip Pontiac's Tempest 420E engine turned in an average of 23 miles per gallon. Travelling over U. S. Highway 80 the Catalina sport sedan encountered all types of terrain, including deserts, temperatures up to 100 degrees, rolling plains, roads under construction and crowded streets of large, busy cities like Fort Worth, Texas.

Strong head winds were encountered on several days and on one long afternoon a drizzling rain fell deep into the car's miles per gallon tank. In order to maintain an average speed above 40 miles per hour it was often necessary to drive at a rate of speed towards the rate of speed of 60 miles per hour. An average speed was maintained each day by the trip, changing direction traveled against driving time. A clock in the car was set in motion by starting the engine and continued to operate as long as the ignition switch was on, whether the car was in motion or not. All driving was done during daylight hours.

The 1959 sport sedan, with a tank of fuel, represents a cost of 11¢ cents per mile to operate the car from coast to coast under conditions experienced by the average driver. Regular grade gasoline was used and was purchased from major oil companies without the benefit of any type of discount offered.

Designed to provide a high level of economy in without any significant loss in Pontiac's famous flashing V-8 performance, the 1959 Pontiac's economy engine is available as a no-additional cost option on all Hydra-Matic equipped Pontiac cars.

The economy engine, rated at 215 horsepower, has a compression ratio of 8.6 to 1 and is designed specifically for regular grade gas. The result of 18 miles per gallon.

The special power plant has a smaller carburetor, special manifold and camshaft and a low axle ratio of 2.87 to 1.
